Abstract

An electromedical implant (1), in particular a cardiac pacemaker, comprising a telemetry device (53) for the exchange of data with an external apparatus (2) which includes a transmitting device (54) and a receiving device (55), wherein a separate energy storage means (56, 57) is respectively provided for each of the transmitting device (54) and the receiving device (55).

(Figure 8)